(Also see Cultural Resource Management (http://catalog.coloradomesa.edu/areas-study/cultural-resource-management))

Program Description
The archaeology minor introduces students to the knowledge and skills necessary to carry out archaeological investigations. The curriculum focuses on the archaeology of North America and supplies hands-on training in field methods and cultural resource management. The minor especially complements such degree programs as history and geology. Students with the background supplied by the minor will be well-prepared to enter the burgeoning local and regional markets in heritage management.
