

COMMUNICATION STUDIES

Program Description

The Communication Studies minor offers a broad range of courses focusing on human communication behaviors and is designed to complement any major. The coursework is designed to improve oral message sending and relational communication skills. In a global survey of industries, companies and public organizations, communication skills ranked FIRST among the personal qualities of college graduates sought by employers. A communication studies minor gives graduates communication credibility and opens many doors. It also enhances interpersonal relationships — students gain valuable conflict resolution and leadership skills, learn to win arguments, discover the power of persuasion, speak out publicly, use nonverbal and visual communication more effectively, and are able to do it all in an increasingly connected, diverse global society.
